

Noah Apthorpe

Candidate for President

Q: What is your position on graduate student unionization?

A:

I recognize that graduate students at Princeton face many issues similar to students at our peer institutions who have chosen to unionize. While I appreciate the desire to unionize at Princeton, I ultimately support the GSG's constitutionally-mandated neutrality toward unionization. The strength of the GSG comes from its ability to work productively with University administration, which is only effective if it can maintain collaborative, rather than antagonistic, relationships.
